Take notice that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-5.1.c, the rules at N.J.A.C. 2:91 were scheduled to expire on August 25, 2023.

N.J.A.C. 2:91 establishes a comprehensive animal waste management program that provides for the proper disposal of animal waste, including waste generated from aquaculture. The rules provide criteria and standards for the composting, handling, storage, processing, utilization, and disposal of animal waste. The rules provide definitive direction for the management of animal waste.

Subchapter 1 sets forth the purpose and scope of the rules.

Subchapter 2 sets forth the definitions of terms used throughout the rules.

Subchapter 3 sets forth the requirements for animal waste management based upon animal units, animal density, type of farm, and tonnage of animal waste received or applied on farms and establishes exemptions to the rules.

Subchapter 4 sets forth penalty provisions for violations of the requirements of this chapter.

At the chapter Appendix, the rule incorporates by reference Part 4 of the 2008 New Jersey Department of Agriculture Best Management Practices (NJDA BMP) Manual. The NJDA BMP Manual, 2008 edition, outlines best management practices to protect water quality on the farm, including strategies for barnyard manure and waste management.

These rules are necessary, reasonable, and proper for the purpose for which they were originally promulgated. The Department of Agriculture has reviewed these rules and has determined that the rules should be readopted without change at this time. The Department of Agriculture is presently working on a proposal that would make some changes to these rules, which it anticipates releasing for public comment within the next year. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-5.1.c(1), these rules are readopted and shall continue in effect for a seven-year period.
