The Office of the State Comptroller recently hosted a training seminar for a 25-member delegation from China’s National Bureau of Statistics.

The delegation visited on Jan. 12 to learn from OSC senior staff members about methods the office uses to audit government finances, examine the efficiency of government programs and scrutinize government contracts. The session lasted three hours.

“We hope the delegation found their time with our office informative and beneficial,” said State Comptroller Matthew Boxer. “We were honored to have them visit us.”
