

From: renee lerner <omitted >
To: <airworkshop@dep.state.nj.us>
Date: Fri, Jun 16, 2006 10:17 AM
Subject: Fwd: 2-stroke machines

Hello Sandy,

I have found some California legislation that may be helpful to the State of New Jersey.

I wondered if we have to wait for the Federal standards, if our standards are high. Could we not set our own standards.

I will look for legislation banning the two-stroke machine. I understand that the City of Los Angeles has banned them within 500 feet of any residential area.
Renée Lerner

Begin forwarded message:

> From: renee lerner <omitted >
> Date: Fri Jun 16, 2006 10:11:41 AM US/Eastern
> To: Meisner Phil <omitted >
> Subject: 2-stroke machines
>
> Hello Phil,
> I found a page on the California website that could be helpful > concerning legislation for the 2-stroke machine > emission standards and test procedures.
>
> <http://www.arb.ca.gov/cgi-bin/swish/search.pl>
>
> the 11th title from the bottom looks like a good place to start.
> then there are amendments toward the top of the page.
>
> Another good source of information is:
> <http://www.arb.ca.gov/cgi-bin/swish/search.pl>
>
> Beginning on page 84 there is a discussion about the machines > available in relation to the California standards
> and the economic effect of the ruling.
>
> I will seek further, but I thought this was a good start.
>
> Renée Lerner, Chair
> Environmental Commission of Englewood Cliffs