THE Onto Your (Restored) Land

Bob-WHITE! The distinctive whistle cuts through the early morning fog along a brushy field edge. This habitat was created as part of New Jersey Division of Fish and Wildlife's Northern Bobwhite Action Plan (http://www.NJFishandWildlife.com/pdf/quailplan.pdf) to restore New Jersey's bobwhite quail population.

Ideal quail habitat includes a mixture of grasslands, shrubs and forest borders, also known as early successional young forest habitat. Restoring old, mature habitat and enhancing existing bobwhite habitat requires intensive management to create the openings that quail rely on for nesting, resting and foraging.

Fish and Wildlife has designated portions of Cumberland, Gloucester and Salem counties lying west of State Highway 55 as a Focal Region for bobwhite and other young forest wildlife species. Habitat management practices, including rotational strip disking, field buffering, prescribed burning, edge feathering, native warm season grass and forb planting and hydro-axing, began in 2013. The goal is to provide sufficient habitat to sustain a quail covey for their entire life cycle throughout the year.

Concurrently Fish and Wildlife is an active partner with New Jersey Audubon and Tall Timbers Research Station in the National Bobwhite Quail Initiative (http://bringbackbobwhites.org) to restore wild bobwhite quail to the Pinelands Region. In this cooperative project lead by NJ Audubon, 80 wild quail captured on private land in Georgia, which were tested and determined to be disease-free, were released in April 2015 on property owned by cooperator Pine Island Cranberry Corporation in Burlington County. Each quail was fitted with a necklace radio transmitter so that graduate students from the University of Delaware can monitor the birds' movements, habitat use, nesting success and survival.

These are the first of 240 wild birds to be released at the site over the next three years. The release site is a blend of landscapes on the 17,000-acre property managed under a forestry stewardship plan to create the young forests which quail require for survival. The goal is to establish a self-sustaining population of wild bobwhite quail in the heart of New Jersey's Pinelands. Aside from the important research opportunity that this project provides for Bobwhite Quail management and population recovery in the Mid-Atlantic region, the project is unique in that it will address the role of forest stewardship and management in the creation and enhancement of habitat for a broad suite of species.

Projects such as these, in conjunction with other research efforts such as predator surveys, will help Fish and Wildlife assess what is the greatest threat to quail survival and will help determine if restoring this native game bird to New Jersey's remaining open space is a possibility.

Are you interested in restoring critical early successional habitats for quail on your property? Division of Fish and Wildlife biologists are available to provide habitat recommendations (http://www.NJFishandWildlife.com/pdf/bobwhitebasics.pdf) for private landowners throughout southwestern New Jersey. This free service involves no contracts. Landowners interested in restoring and enhancing wildlife habitat on their property should contact our Bureau of Wildlife Management's Habitat Specialist Jimmy Sloan at (609) 748-2058. For information about the New Jersey Audubon Pinelands Project go to bobwhite.njaudubon.org.

Do you want your land to attract a greater diversity of wildlife species?

Are you interested in wildlife stewardship?

You can make a difference!

In an effort to restore critical early successional habitats for quail and other species, New Jersey Division of Fish and Wildlife staff is available to provide habitat recommendations for private landowners throughout southwestern New Jersey. This service is free and involves no contracts.

It was a first deer harvest for both McBride siblings, Steven, 15 and Lydia, 14. This was Lydia's first hunting experience of any kind; Steven had spent a bit more time in the field. Both deer were taken with a crossbow last October at White Lake Wildlife Management Area in Warren County. Their father, Tony McBride, said that he can't describe how great it felt to sit next to each of them as they took their first deer, watching their reactions, whispering advice, trying to keep them calm! It was very exciting and rewarding.

PUBLIC DEER HUNTING LAND IN NEW JERSEY

NEW JERSEY HAS more than 750,000 acres of public land available to the deer hunter. This list is arranged by deer management zone for public land open to deer hunting. Generally, only areas with 100 acres or more of upland habitat are listed. State parks and forests that allow hunting may have some sections which are closed to hunting. Some areas allow deer hunting only during certain seasons, require an access fee or have other special regulations. Refer to the Digest section Special Areas Hunting Season Information page 50 or contact the appropriate authority for details. See page 85 for hunting opportunities on national wildlife refuges in New Jersey.

Remember: Hunters must have permission to hunt agricultural land even if the land is not posted. Hunters should obtain permission before hunting any private property. Hunters are advised not to purchase a deer permit for a zone in which they have no place to hunt.

SAFETY AND HUNTING OPPORTUNITIES

SAFETY ZONE Awareness: Protecting Your Hunting Privilege

NEW JERSEY HUNTERS enjoy many types of hunting, numerous days afield and generous bag limits. But development and other human encroachment on the forests and fields of the Garden State has changed both wildlife habitat and land suitable for hunting, such that SAFETY ZONE awareness is even more critical for hunters.

What is a SAFETY ZONE?

- The firearm SAFETY ZONE is the area within 450 feet of a building or school playground, even if not occupied. For bowhunters, the SAFETY ZONE around buildings is 150 feet but remains 450 feet from a school playground. See Safety Zone, page 26.
- The SAFETY ZONE is the place where you, the hunter, cannot carry a loaded firearm or nocked arrow unless you have written permission in hand.
- The SAFETY ZONE was established by legislation in 1946 as an area to place some physical distance, a buffer, between hunters and homeowners.
- The SAFETY ZONE could be land where there is suitable wildlife habitat for adaptable species, like the white-tailed deer, cottontail rabbit and Canada goose.
- The SAFETY ZONE is not a magic shield and cannot stop a misdirected projectile from entering the area around a home.

What can you do to heighten your SAFETY ZONE awareness?

- 1. Post SAFETY ZONE signs.
- 2. Talk with landowners.
- 3. Scout hunting property annually to be aware of new construction or other changes.
- Hunt SMART and remind your hunting partners to Hunt SMART.
- 5. Know the law. Know the land.

Remember, failure to hunt safely and responsibly is inexcusable. Always be a responsible hunter. Always be aware of your surroundings, the target and what may lie beyond the target. The principles of good conduct learned at your hunter education course are called into practice every time you hunt.

Take special care hunting on "high visibility" property, habitat where our adaptable wildlife species—especially white-tailed deer—are flourishing. Here, hunter conduct will be watched closely; the image we portray can have a great impact on the tolerance for our sport. Hunting these Special Areas carries added responsibility for you, as a hunter, to exercise restraint and make superior judgment decisions.
