

Message to Boaters

Dear Boater,

Thank you for picking up a copy of The New Jersey Boater's Pumpout Station Guide. The guide has been updated to provide you with a current list of operating pumpout stations, as well as updated background and contact information.

The New Jersey Clean Vessel Act Program has also produced an electronic version of the guide which is now available on an interactive mapping website located at the following web address: <http://njs.rutgers.edu/pumpout/>

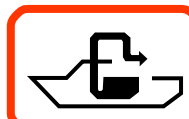

Visitors to the site will find information about shellfish water classifications, boat ramps, open space areas and fuel sales in addition to pumpout station locations. Please call ahead to the marina of your choice to ensure the pumpout is fully functional.

Pumping out your boat's holding tank at a certified facility or into a pumpout boat will help keep New Jersey's water clean, and aid in the protection of our fish, shellfish, and wildlife populations. It will also help protect the health of everyone who enjoys New Jersey's beautiful coastal and freshwater resources. After all, no one wants to swim, boat or fish in polluted water. Using pumpout stations is a simple contribution we can all make in preventing pollution and keeping New Jersey's environment clean and healthy.

Thank you for your interest in New Jersey's Clean Vessel Act Program and please remember to be a safe boater and "Keep Our Waters Clean - Use Pumpouts!"

The New Jersey Clean Vessel Act Steering Committee

New Jersey Boater's Pumpout Guide

Boaters: DON'T Pollute!

- NEVER:
- Discharge oily bilge water
  - Squirt liquid detergent into oily bilge water
  - Top off fuel tanks
  - Use liquid detergent to disperse fuel spills at fuel pumps
  - Dump used oil, other engine fluids or oil products into the water, down storm drains or into a general waste receptacle
  - Contaminate used oil with other toxic substances, such as engine cleaner or gasoline
  - Use toxic solvents to clean engine parts
  - Leave oily tools, parts or debris on the boat or dock
  - Spill or burn off paint
  - Scrape paint over the water's surface
  - Scrape, sand, or paint on windy days
  - Allow paint materials to enter the environment
  - Launch boat before the paint has cured
  - Wash or discard paint cans, brushes, or protective clothing in storm drains or water

Report Environmental Problems

While out on the water, you may witness a form of environmental abuse or an environmental emergency. The state operates a 24-hour hotline you can call to report the situation. Operators will refer the problem to the appropriate authorities. Some examples of environmental crises are algal blooms and fish kills. Water discoloration is an indication of algal blooms, which occurs when large amounts of algae form near the surface of the water. This is a serious problem because decaying algal blooms reduce the oxygen content in the water, particularly in shallow regions, leading to the death of fish and other resident animals. The hotline number is: 1-877-WARNDEP (1-877-927-6337).

Boating Safety

- The State of New Jersey recognizes the need for safe boating and highly recommends that all boaters and personal watercraft operators make themselves thoroughly familiar with all the laws and regulations. Here are some safety tips to help you during your travels on New Jersey's waterways:
- 1. Always tell someone where you will be on the water. If you encounter problems, this will help authorities locate you.
  - 2. Never go out alone, know your limits, and boat according to your abilities.
  - 3. Don't exceed the load limit and know how to swim in case you or someone else goes overboard.
  - 4. Always wear your PFD, it is your best life insurance on the water.
  - 5. Practice rescue techniques. If someone is in trouble in the water, use elementary rescue methods first, such as throwing something that floats to the victim. Only as a last resort should you enter the water to save someone. As a boater you are obligated to render assistance to someone in distress.

We would like to thank Eleanor A. Bochenek, Marine Scientist, Hasin Shellfish Research Laboratory, Rutgers University and Janet N. Larson, Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Ocean County for sharing their information and allowing the New Jersey Clean Vessel Program to adapt their text for this publication.
