Oct. 17, 2010	Annual Orientation for teachers - Holocaust education class taught by master teacher, Mary Vazquez, retired Millburn, Middle School teacher	0	55	5	0
Nov. 14,, 2010	Colloquium - Panel discussion among participants in a mission to concentration camps, led by Rabbi Jack Bemporad of the Center for Interreligious Understanding, Professor Marshall Breger of Catholic University School of Law and Imam Abdullah Antepli, first Muslim Chaplain at Duke University. The Imam was among a group of 8 other Imams, deniers and anti-Semites, who agreed to go on this trip to learn first-hand about the Holocaust. The Imams agreed as a group that this was a life-changing experience for them. They spoke of their own personal feelings at seeing the shoes and the hair of the victims in the death camps, and vowed to urge their peers to take a similar trip. They are no longer deniers and hold Jews in much higher esteem.	25	25	10	140
April 12, 13, May 1, 2011	Production of the children's opera Brundibar first presented by child inmates in Theresienstadt, Hitler's "model community." Brought to Seton Hall by Luna Kaufman, past chairman of the SRTF Board of Trustees, this moving production featured members of the Newark Boys Chorus School and choristers from Mount Saint Mary Academy in Watchung. Jason Tramm of the NJ State Opera conducted, Daniel Neidern, directed, Charles Czarnacki updated the musical score of Hans Krasa, and Thomas Hanlan created the original scenery and costumes. Ela Weissberger, survivor of the camp and the original Cat in the 55 times repeated opera in Czechoslovakia, attended all three performances and spoke about her experiences to the children. The second performance was first NJ students arranged by Dr. Winkler, and the third was for the public at the Czech Consulate in NYC.	450	35	10	200
