The In-Class Resource Program is one option for supporting students with disabilities in the general education classroom. This workshop will provide general and special education teaching pairs with the basic knowledge and skills needed to implement in-class resource program instruction. Participants will explore:

- a variety of co-teaching arrangements;
- the roles and responsibilities of the general and special education teachers;
- effective techniques that foster general and special educator collaboration; and
- approaches and formats that facilitate instructional planning.

Audience: General education and special education teaching pairs –
Grades K-12
