March 23, 2012	LRC-Central
February 15, 2012	LRC-South

The provision of consultation services is one way to support students with disabilities in general education settings. During this workshop, participants will be introduced to methods and strategies that can be used to assist the general education teacher and/or teacher aide in implementing educational supports for an individual student or a group of students with disabilities in the general education classroom. Workshop participants will receive instruction in the use of effective communication strategies, how to develop a collaborative partnership, and methods of problem solving and other techniques that promote and support a collaborative consultation relationship.

Audience: Child study team members, related services personnel, special education teachers, and instructional coaches –
Grades K – 12
