Farmland Preservation Unpaid Donations or TDR Farms May 1985 to June 30, 2013 (FY2013)

This page reports some of the farmland permanently preserved for agriculture without the use of public funds.

This would occur when farmland is preserved in a transfer of development rights (TDR) program. This also would occur when land is acquired by counties or by private land trusts without State funding. This also would occur when farmland or development rights on land are donated. And it would occur when State-owned land is converted into preserved farmland and sold at auction.

The GSPT does not have a full tabulation of this farmland acreage statewide.

However, the State Agriculture Development Committee does list some of these farms in its overall statistics – which is why GSPT data and SADC data differ.

This table enables the reader to reconcile data reported by the GSPT with data reported by the SADC.
