In addition, there may be other line items on the balance sheets that include amounts due to or due from affiliates. The notes should disclose the portion of these amounts that represent balances with affiliates and identify the affiliates. The notes should also disclose the identities of the affiliates for any amounts included on the Statements of Income, Form DGE-210 and DGE-215, lines 14, 15, and 17 and the nature of the expenses included on line 15, other charges from affiliates. All charges from affiliates should be reported on line 15 with the exception of management fees, interest, and income taxes. If the licensee is charged for a portion of the federal income tax by its parent with whom it joins in the filing of a consolidated return, such charges shall be included on line 23, Provision (Credit) for Income Taxes, with full disclosure of the arrangements in the notes.

Again, there may be transactions with affiliates which may not be separately identified on the Statements of Income, such as interest income from affiliates which is included on line 20, and Non-operating income (expense). The notes should disclose these amounts and identify the affiliates. If there are certain charges from affiliates that the licensee believes would be more meaningfully included under costs and expenses (e.g., charges from an affiliate for invoices paid by that affiliate for the account of the licensee) then the licensee should request a determination from Division staff.

- e. In addition to the disclosures necessary for a fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, notes shall be provided for the Fourth Quarter in support of certain line items on the Balance Sheets, Form DGE-205, and the Statements of Income, Form DGE-210 and DGE-215 where any single item exceeds the specified limits shown below. The remaining items may be aggregated in an "other category". If details are required for the current period, comparable amounts for the prior period shall also be disclosed. Please note however that related party balances and transactions should be reported in accordance with instructions 7d.
