Developed by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State and presented in partnership with a network of museums throughout the state, the New Jersey Arts Annual affords emerging and established artists alike the opportunity to exhibit their work together. This Fine Arts exhibition, in particular, presents for our discovery, exploration and appreciation some excellent examples of the artistic talent that thrives in our great state.

It is a fitting tribute to this talent that New Jersey Arts Annual: Fine Arts is hosted by The Noyes Museum. As an important component of the cultural life in Atlantic County and all of southern New Jersey, The Noyes Museum embodies the spirit of achievement, dedication and energy found in our arts community.

It is a delight to see the New Jersey Arts Annual reaching southern New Jersey with its message of inspiration and recognition. I am pleased that The Noyes Museum is a conduit for this message and extend to The Noyes Museum my appreciation for helping us to enjoy New Jersey's arts.

Daniel J. Dalton
Secretary of State

Since its inception in 1985, the New Jersey Arts Annual has provided audiences with the opportunity to experience exhibitions reflecting the current state of crafts and visual arts in New Jersey. The innovative series of exhibitions has given wide exposure to New Jersey artists and professional craftspeople, and has brought thousands of people to appreciate the great diversity of talent represented in the state.

We congratulate the artists who were selected for the New Jersey Arts Annual: Fine Arts, hosted by The Noyes Museum. We recognize that their creative efforts are especially meaningful as the 1990s unfold before us. We wish them continuing success in their artistic endeavors. We also wish to thank Noyes Museum Director Robert Koenig and Curator Stacy Smith for their professionalism and dedication in preparing for this important event.

The New Jersey State Council on the Arts is proud to have provided the leadership for this exhibition, and to have worked closely in partnership with The Noyes Museum and the five other participating museums: The Newark Museum, the Jersey City Museum, The Montclair Art Museum, The Morris Museum, and the New Jersey State Museum. We anticipate another landmark year for the Arts Annual, and, on behalf of the Arts Council, we welcome the residents of and visitors to New Jersey to what has in a few short years become an exciting yearly cultural event.

FOREWORD

The New Jersey Arts Annual has demonstrated over a period of years that artists and craftsmen in our state consistently produce works which are high in quality, varied in form and content, and impeccable in technique and craftsmanship. Indeed, my fellow jurors and I were impressed by the number of entrees, by the diversity of intellectual, emotional and aesthetic concerns inherent in them and by the diverse backgrounds of the painters, sculptors, printmakers and photographers who submitted them. The exhibition represents a rare opportunity for younger emerging artists to show with seasoned, highly visible veterans; conversely, it gives these seniors a good look at what their younger colleagues are doing. A relatively small number of artists are invited. Others, informed of the opportunity to compete by widely distributed prospectuses, are juried first by slide, then by actual work. Still other candidates are identified through the slide bank of the NJSCA, invited to submit and juried by actual work.

The New Jersey Arts Annual is the work of many: the artists who share their works with us, the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, which co-sponsors the exhibition and catalogue and provides general operating support to the museums participating in the cycle, and the directors and staff of our sister institutions, The Newark Museum, The Morris Museum, the New Jersey State Museum, The Montclair Art Museum, and the Jersey City Museum. Special thanks go to my fellow jurors, Linda Bantel, Director of the Museum of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts and Stacy Smith, Curatorial Assistant and Registrar, The Noyes Museum, who also coordinated all the details of processing works for jurying and exhibition and planned and implemented the documentary catalogue. Craig Justy and Levi Widman of the Noyes staff were of invaluable assistance in installing the show; Donna Clark planned the interpretative programs and Bonnie Pover edited the catalogue. Tom Moran, Visual Arts Coordinator, NJSCA, generously made the New Jersey artist slide bank available to us.

Robert J. Koenig, Director
The Noyes Museum
