

Do I Qualify for the Medicinal Cannabis Program?

To become a registered patient with the New Jersey Medicinal Cannabis Program you must:

- Maintain a bona fide relationship with a health care provider who is registered with the program.
- Be a New Jersey resident.
- Be diagnosed with a qualifying medical condition by a New Jersey health care practitioner registered with the New Jersey Medicinal Cannabis Program.

Caregivers

Patients unable to travel to a dispensary may designate and register caregivers to make purchases on their behalf.

New Jersey's Medicinal Cannabis Program

About NJ's Medicinal Cannabis Program

New Jersey's Medicinal Cannabis Program helps registered patients under the care of licensed medicinal practitioners safely access cannabis and cannabis products from regulated and monitored facilities.

As part of medicinal treatment, patients receive cannabis recommendations from their health care practitioner for up to 3 oz every 30 days, with no limit for terminal patients. Cannabis orders are filled at a state-licensed medicinal dispensary.

Why Register?

Medicinal cannabis patients do not pay state sales tax on cannabis and cannabis products.

Medicinal cannabis is prioritized over cannabis for recreational use, so there is always a supply for patients.
