State Comptroller's Office Recovered More Than $120 Million for Taxpayers in FY 2013

The Office of the State Comptroller (OSC) set a state record for recovering improperly spent Medicaid dollars in Fiscal Year 2013, returning $122.8 million to the state and federal budgets, according to the office's annual report released today.

OSC's annual report also details reforms and taxpayer savings to be realized from a succession of audits and investigations completed over the past fiscal year. The 26-page report provides facts, figures and highlights regarding the efforts of each of the office's four divisions.

The annual report also provides details on the office's role in the oversight of billions of dollars in federal reconstruction funds sent to New Jersey following Superstorm Sandy, including the office's establishment of a website that allows the public to view how and where the state has allocated its reconstruction funding.
