

New General Permit (GP-001A) for Solid Material Storage Equipment

Who is affected by this update?

Any facility in New Jersey that currently has Solid Material Storage Equipment registered as a General Permit GP-001 or is planning to register unpermitted Solid Material Storage Equipment under N.J.A.C. 7:27-8.

What is DEP doing?

The Department is replacing General Permit GP-001, Bulk Solid Materials Receiving and Storage Systems with General Permit GP-001A, Solid Material Storage Equipment. GP-001A is substantially the same as GP-001, except as follows:

- GP-001A will allow multiple pieces of solid material storage equipment to be registered;
- GP-001A will have an inventory list of equipment, emission points, control devices, and emission units; and,
- GP-001A will require records of material stored.

What should I do?

General permit GP-001A was made available on April 20, 2015. General permit GP-001 is no longer available for use after this date. Bulk solid materials receiving and storage systems currently registered under GP-001 can continue to operate until:

- a. Your current general permit expiration date, before which time you must register for authorization under GP-001A, as applicable, or apply for and receive approval for a source-specific permit and certificate for continued operation of the solid material storage equipment;
or
- b. Your bulk solid materials receiving and storage equipment is replaced or modified, before which time you must register for authorization under GP-001A, as applicable, or apply for and receive approval for a source specific permit and certificate prior to operation of the replaced or modified equipment.
