

Quote from Shulamit Lirov:

“My uncle was born in 1905. He was murdered in Shtetl Krazhiai in August 1941.”

Segal sisters. From the right: Leah-Liza, Etel, Frida. Ukmergė. Around 1918-20

The first from the left is Etel Segal (later Shmidt), the third from the left is Leah-Liza Segal-Gordon with her daughter Shulamit and son Reuven near Ukmergė. Around 1929

The first man sitting in front is Osher Segal. Around 1920

Osher Segal with his wife Edia. They were, together with their 12-year-old daughter Sara, in Vilnius ghetto and perished in Estonia in 1944.

Leah-Liza Segal-Gordon. Was murdered in 1941 at age of forty.

Reuven Gordon, Shulamit Lirov's brother, was murdered in the summer of 1944, during the liquidation of the Kaunas Ghetto. The picture of the 13th intake of Kaunas Ausra boys' gymnasium, taken on 14 June 1940. Reuven Gordon is here among the other graduates.

Etel Segal-Shmidt

Dr. Osher Shmidt

Ilja Himmelfarb with his wife Dvoira Segal-Himmelfarb and their daughter Rivka (Rita). Dvoira and Rita were prisoners in the Vilnius Ghetto. In 1944 they were taken to Estonia and perished. When the war started, Ilja Himmelfarb was in Italy. He survived.

Etel Segal-Shmidt, together with her husband Dr. Osher Shmidt and their four-year old son Benia, were shot in Kražiai in August 1941 (which is described in Antanas Jonynas' novel "Šėtinis" (In the Well))

F. „Shuliny (In the Well)“