Trenton, NJ - The New Jersey Department of Education today released an application for grants to assist school communities as they recover from the effects of Super Storm Sandy. These funds, made possible through a $1.25 million grant award from the US Department of Education's Project School Emergency Response to Violence (SERV) program, are available to districts to fund short- and long-term education services designed to restore safe learning environments for their students.

"Providing resources and support to our schools and communities as they continue to deal with the effects of Super Storm Sandy is of the utmost importance," said State Education Commissioner Cerf. "I am extremely grateful to Secretary Duncan and the US Department of Education for their commitment to support the recovery of school communities in New Jersey."

School districts or charter schools may request reimbursement of expenditures in support of activities intended to restore a sense of safety and security, activities intended to assist students in understanding the impact of the hurricane and stabilizing their lives, and activities that assist school districts and charter schools in managing the practical problems created by Hurricane Sandy.

Examples of eligible types of services or activities districts may apply for include:

- Targeted mental health assessments, referrals and services related to Hurricane Sandy with the goal of restoring victims/survivors to their pre-incident levels of functioning;
- Overtime for teachers, counselors, and law enforcement and security officers and other staff;
- Substitute teachers and other staff as necessary;
- Emergency transportation;
- Technical assistance on developing an appropriate response to crisis;
- Transportation and other costs to operate school at an alternative site, e.g. leasing of space to substitute for damaged building;
- Temporary security measures such as non-permanent metal detectors and additional security guards and security cameras.

The grant application can be found here: http://www.state.nj.us/education/sandy/projserv/PROJSERV_APPLICATION.pdf

Applications are due by Thursday, March 21, 2013 with an anticipated distribution of funds in April.

Supporting recovery efforts remains a priority for all state agencies, and the Department of Health and Department of Children and Families have been mobilizing resources, expertise and capabilities, to help the affected communities and their residents.

School districts most heavily impacted by Sandy are encouraged to periodically conduct assessments of their students in order to monitor their physical and mental health. For example, allergic reactions, certain skin infections, respiratory problems, and asthma attacks can be triggered by mold exposure and other contaminants. Additionally, psychosocial recovery programs for children in schools can help children cope with traumatic stress, anxiety, and fear and avoid more serious mental health challenges in the future.

For more information on the programs and resources offered by the Department of Health or the Department of Children and Families, districts can visit their websites at http://www.state.nj.us/health/ and <a href="http://www.state.nj.us/healt
