Greenhouse gasses emitted by humans are a grave threat to humankind. Extreme fires, drought, floods, land slides, hurricanes, sea rise are very frightening harbingers of an apocalyptic future. In light of this fact, I urge governor Murphy to declare at least a temporary immediate moratorium on new fossil fuel projects. These projects can then be evaluated to ascertain there are no other alternative renewable energy sources to provide the same service. This moratorium will show governor is serious about changing course rather than continuing with business as usual of developing fossil fuels.
