As a New Jersey resident and homeowner, I believe New Jersey should move to a moratorium on using fossil fuels to generate electrical power as soon as possible.

Proven technology for renewable energy is with us now; wind power, solar and others should be investigated then put online to literally clear the air and the water too.

It's a fact, that this past July was the hottest on record along with the past five years. All evidence seems climate change is due largely to human activity. Let's wakeup to the vast amount of scientific climate related data that faces us now. Stop talking about it, no more "studies" but action that the public can see. We will all breath better and future generations will applaud you.

Climate change is happening faster than anyone thought it would...there is no time to waste.
