DETERMINATION OF DENIAL OF RELIEF OF BENEFIT CHARGES

1. It has been determined that the above named individual was separated from your employ for reasons that are not disqualifying under the New Jersey Unemployment Insurance Law. You are potentially liable for charges to your experience rating account for unemployment benefits received by this individual.
2. Charges to your experience rating account for the above named individual will not be waived as you failed to return to the Division a request for additional separation information within 21 days of _____ as provided for in N.J.A.C. 12:17-21.3(b).
3. Charges to your experience rating account for the above named individual cannot be waived because nonprofit employers choosing to reimburse the Unemployment Trust Fund for benefit payments and federal employers are not covered under the amendment to the law for the noncharging of benefits when an individual overcomes any possible disqualification arising from his/her separation.
4. Charges to your experience rating account cannot be waived because the refusal of work by the above named claimant occurred after the individual's separation from your employ. A refusal of work occurring after separation from employment is not covered by the amendment to the Unemployment Compensation Law that provides for relief of charges.

RIGHT OF APPEAL

If you disagree with this determination, you may file an appeal by writing to the local unemployment office listed in the upper left corner. You should fully state the details of the individual's separation in your appeal. The appeal must be received or postmarked within ten days of the date of mailing listed above.
