Vineland hosts Sweetheart Café

From the desk of Mary Macho

At noon on Feb. 11, in the Main Building Auditorium of The New Jersey Veterans Memorial Home at Vineland was transformed into The Sweetheart Café for the residents, their spouses, and their families to celebrate Valentine's Day. Red and white decorations filled the room and violin music filled the air.

The Activities Department wanted the married couples to have a special luncheon to celebrate Valentine's Day. Of the six of the eight married couples at the facility were in attendance. The residents dined on filet mignon wrapped in bacon, twice baked stuffed potatoes with sour cream and chives and grilled asparagus with New York style cherry cheesecake for dessert. Meals were served to 65 residents.

The weather outside the home could have been a deterrent to the dinner – more than 24 inches of snow outside created a short staffing condition – but all the departments kicked in. The grills were shoveled out, dusted off and moved to the cleared area in front of the building where the grilling took place. A generous donation of gourmet meat products from Coldwell

Banker Real Estate/Pine Agency of Elmer had been delivered before the snowfall. The strolling violinist, Gusztav Gaspar was able to make the trip from Philadelphia and provided music. A great time was had by residents and staff.

Guard partners with Rowan University students to provide system to manage facilities

By Sgt. Wayne Woolley, DMAVA Public Affairs Specialist

Coming soon to a New Jersey National Guard facility near you: Rowan University students armed with clipboards, cameras and surveying equipment.

The Department of Military and Veterans Affairs and the Gloucester County university have launched the first partnership in the nation that uses college students to help create and update a Geographic Information System (GIS) to help manage properties.

GIS uses computers to marry the power of a map with the power of a database and can help track everything from the amount of heating fuel in a tank at an armory to how soon the light bulbs should need replacing. Run a cursor over the map and click anywhere you want for more information.

John Hasse, the professor who directs the environmental studies program at Rowan puts it this way: "Combining the raw power of the information in a database with the visual power of a map really magnifies both."

The New Jersey National Guard and DMAVA aren't exactly neophytes when it comes to GIS. Maps and data for the facilities have been compiled for some time.

But enlisting the Rowan students ensures that all the data is current and more importantly, that information for new projects is captured. The biggest new project is the proposed $5 million wind turbine at the National Guard training center in Sea Girt. If the project is ultimately approved, GIS will be critical for everything from mapping a safe zone around the blades to plotting the path of migratory birds past Sea Girt.

The first four students participating in the program are excited.

Matthew Boegemann, a 22-year-old environmental studies major from Hamilton Township, said hands-on experience in GIS is hard to get – yet essential for landing a good job in his field.

"It's one thing to sit in a classroom and learn theory about GIS," Boegemann said. "It's another to get to go out and do it and come up with results that are going to get used in the real world."

Recycle your used CDs, save the environment

Get on the recycling bandwagon!! Installations Division, DMAVA, will be sending a shipment of used CDs for recycling to Back Thru The Future technology disposal firm in New Jersey. If you have some used CDs that you wish to contribute, contact Joe Dunleavy at 609-530-7134 or joe.dunleavy@njdmava.state.nj.us. The scheduled date for shipment is March 9.

Here are some facts about making and recycling CDs.

-To manufacture a pound of plastic (30 CDs per pound), it requires 300 cubic feet of natural gas, 2 cups of crude oil and 24 gallons of water.

-It is estimated that AOL alone has distributed more than 2 billion CDs. That is the natural gas equivalent of heating 200,000 homes for 1 year.

-It is estimated that it will take over 1 million years for a CD to completely decompose in a landfill.

DMAVA Green

By Tech. Sgt. Barb Harbison, DMAVA Public Affairs Specialist

At the Going Green seminar held this week at the DMAVA headquarters in Lawrenceville, a lot of interesting facts and information was put forward.

Representatives from the Clean Water Fund and EarthShare New Jersey gave many tips, particularly about cleaning and pest control, during the seminar. Here are some of the tips.

Seal and caulk the openings in and around your home; it makes it harder for pests to get in.

Spray lemon juice where you see ants. It destroys their natural paths and causes them to go elsewhere.

Tuck the corner of a Bounce dryer sheet in your pocket this summer when outdoors. Bees and mosquitoes don't like it and will stay away.

Head lice problem? Coat your hair with mayonnaise, let it sit for a little while, then comb out.

Problem with grubs in the lawn and garden? When you boil corn, toss leftover the water onto the area; the niacin from the corn gets rid of grubs.

Club soda on pet accidents will help remove the odor. Or you can coat the area with baking soda, let dry and vacuum.

Check your antibacterial hand sanitizer. If an ingredient is triclosan, it may be wise to toss it. Triclosan is one of those chemicals that the EPA is trying to ban. Another hand gel precaution: don't let your kids lick their hands after using the sanitizer. More than one child has made it to the ER for "loopy" behavior and they have been found to looped from licking the primarily alcohol sanitizer off their hands.

Geese a problem? Use a ratio of one to five, Welch's concentrated grape juice to water, on the area. (One gallon of juice to five gallons water will cover an athletic field; use your proportions from there.)

Keep Green!

Families

Family programs announces upcoming events

From the desk of Marie Durling, Deputy Director, Family Programs

We have two Strong Bonds Marriage Enrichment seminars coming up. The first will be at a to-be-determined location in Central Jersey on April 8-11 and the one after that will be somewhere in North Jersey on May 14-16. We will announce the locations as soon as they become available. Seats are available for Soldiers and Airmen and their significant others, but priority goes to personnel returning from deployment and those who have not attended in the past. Contact me at marie.durling@us.army.mil or 609-530-6884 for registration forms.

We are also working on getting tickets for Great Adventure at the reduced rate of $21.

Family time at the bigtop

Take the family to see the elephants, tigers, trapeze artists, clowns and more at The Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey™ Circus, Barnum's Funundrum, at the Prudential Center in Newark March 3-7 and the Izod Center in East Rutherford March 10-14.

You can get group rates at individual purchases. Just contact Jason at 1-866-248-8740, ext. 102, for information or to make your purchases. This is available to all military ID card holders.

Tricare University opens classes for benefits knowledge

If Tricare has you wondering about your benefits, one way to find out the program is to attend Tricare University. NO, you don't have to sit in a big classroom with a professor droning on and on. Nor is your syllabus or book list part of the university's program.

Tricare University offers free online courses 24/7/365 at www.tricare.mil/tricareu. Of the different courses, Tricare Public Course provides the quickest and easiest way to get a general overview and basic knowledge of the Tricare programs. There is no registration for this course and it is accessible to anyone who wants to know more about Tricare.

To take one of the offered courses, go to the Web site and click on "online training" for a list of options.

Project Stars launched - new program women veterans

A new program was launched in October 2009 for female veterans and service women as they return to New Jersey following deployment to Iraq and Afghanistan called Project Stars.

Located in the Women's Rights Information Center, 108 West Palisade Avenue, Englewood, the program is designed to address the unique needs of women veterans as they return from active duty. The three primary areas of focus will be academic, career services and legal assistance.

Project Stars offers free training and services. Some of the programs available include:

- Office technology computer training programs – earn a Microsoft Office Specialist certification
- Daytime classes at Farleigh Dickinson University, Hackensack campus, technology center or the evening classes at the Women's center
- Meet with college Director of Veterans Services to learn about Yellow Ribbon program and how the program can pay for your college education
- Job advice, interviewing skills and more with the career counselors
- Free, private consultation with an attorney from Women Lawyers in Bergen to receive support counseling and confidential referrals to non-military specialists for advice on marital law, child custody rights or other family issues or personal concerns.

Visit www.womensrights.org or call 201-568-1166 for more information.

NJVVMF to hold program on Fort Monmouth's support during Vietnam War

On Feb. 27, at 1 p.m., the New Jersey Vietnam Veterans' Memorial Foundation will host a slide show and discussion entitled A Glimpse at Fort Monmouth's Support to Vietnam led by Melissa Ziobro, Command Historian of the U.S. Army CECOM Life Cycle Management Command. This program will be held at the Vietnam Era Educational Center in Holmdel. Teachers attending will receive professional credit.

Melissa Ziobro has worked as a staff historian at Fort Monmouth since March 2004 and has been the Command Historian since July 2009.

Ziobro will speak on the importance of Fort Monmouth as the headquarters of the U.S. Army Electronics Command (ECOM). ECOM was a young organization when President Johnson increased war efforts in South Vietnam. The command was able to provide the signal research, development, and logistics support needed for combat troops. ECOM supplied the U.S. forces with advanced technologies including portable surveillance radar which one commander described as being "worth 500 men." Fort Monmouth has a long history of technological developments ranging from its 1940s radar systems to the Firefinder radars that are used today. With the ever-increasing need for war technologies today, this lecture will provide insight into past and present innovations developed at Fort Monmouth.

Lecture attendees are asked to RSVP to 732-335-0033. A donation of $5 per person is suggested.

VA education call center back to normal; backload gone

WASHINGTON (Feb. 23, 2010) - The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) today announced that the Education Call Center, closed on Thursdays and Fridays over the past two months, is again operating five days a week.

"I am pleased by the progress these call center employees made in significantly cutting our pending inventory of education claims," said Secretary of Veterans Affairs Eric K. Shinseki. "As a result of their efforts, 30,000 additional student Veterans received their checks, bought books, paid the rent, and stayed in school."

By temporarily reassigning call center employees on Thursdays and Fridays to process Post-9/11 GI Bill claims, VA was able to complete a significant number of education claims from mid-December through mid-February.

Since inception of this historic new program, VA has issued nearly $1.9 billion in Post-9/11 GI Bill benefit payments and opened the door to higher education to 209,490 people.

As of Feb. 12, VA received spring semester Post-9/11 GI Bill enrollments from approximately 180,000 student Veterans and already paid nearly 90 percent of them. All Post-9/11 GI Bill participants whose spring enrollments were received by Jan. 18 have been paid.

Because VA is now timely in processing spring enrollments, advance payments are no longer available at VA regional offices or through the online advance payment Web site.

Information about the Post-9/11 GI Bill, as well as VA's other educational benefit programs, is available at VA's Web site, www.gibill.va.gov, or by calling 1-888-GIBILL-1 (or 1-888-442-4551).

VA starts campaign to assist vets applying for Post-9/11 GI Bill

WASHINGTON (Feb. 23, 2010) - The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) today announced a two-month, nationwide advertising campaign to assist student Veterans and servicemembers applying for the Post-9/11 GI Bill.

"VA, student Veterans and our schools have made significant progress in implementing the GI Bill this spring, but we still have more to do," said Secretary of Veterans Affairs Eric K. Shinseki. "We won't rest until all student Veterans have received the education benefit they earned in defense of our Nation."

Since inception of this historic new program, VA has issued nearly $1.9 billion in Post-9/11 GI Bill benefit payments and opened the door to higher education to 209,490 people.

As of Feb. 12, VA has received spring semester Post-9/11 GI Bill enrollments from approximately 180,000 student Veterans and already paid nearly 90 percent of students. All Post-9/11 GI Bill participants whose spring enrollments were received by Jan. 18 have been paid.

The GI Bill Advertising campaign includes ads in college publications, online and social media, print, radio, and outdoor advertising such as posters and flyers. Public service announcements are being delivered to college and local radio stations. Student Veterans on campuses will also see posters in registrars' offices, dormitories, cafeterias, student union buildings and other high traffic areas.

"This comprehensive, nationwide advertising campaign will help us reach those student Veterans, servicemembers and educational administrators who need help in understanding the GI Bill and their role in the benefits process," said Keith Wilson, director of VA's educational service.

Social media and online advertising will be extensively used to reach the younger generation of student Veterans. VA will place banner ads on social media sites such as Facebook, Google, MySpace, Yahoo, and other outlets.

Text messaging ads will also link student Veterans to VA. By texting "GIBILL," Veterans will receive the basic message: "You Served. Get Benefits." Veterans will then be directed to follow three steps: "Review your benefit options online. Submit your application. And check with your school certifying official to confirm that your VA enrollment certification has been sent to VA."

VA also developed a hip pocket guide and checklist with helpful tips to assist Veterans and servicemembers in the application process.

The Post-9/11 GI Bill, passed by Congress last year, is the most extensive educational assistance program authorized since the original GI Bill was signed into law in 1944.

Information about the Post-9/11 GI Bill, as well as VA's other educational benefit programs, is available at VA's Web site, www.gibill.va.gov, or by calling 1-888-GIBILL-1 (or 1-888-442-4551).

Joseph Galloway special guest at AUSA Spring dinner in April

The special guest for the spring dinner meeting of the Association of the United States Army Northern New Jersey Chapter 1502 will be Joseph L. Galloway, bestselling co-author of "We are Soldiers Still, A Journey Back to the Battlefields of Vietnam."

The dinner will be held on April 6 at the Royal Albert's Palace Restaurant, Fords. Cocktail hour begins at 5:30 p.m. and dinner begins at 6:30 p.m.

Galloway and Lt. Gen. Harold Moore also co-authored the book "We Were Soldiers Once...And Young," which was made into the movie, "We Were Soldiers," starring Mel Gibson.

The latest book tells the story of Galloway and Moore's return to Vietnam's Ia Drang Valley. Renewing their relationships with 10 American veterans of the conflict, along with their former adversaries, Moore and Galloway explore how the war changed them all.

Galloway was decorated with a Bronze Star Medal with a "V" for valor on May 1, 1998, for rescuing wounded Soldiers under fire in the Ia Drang Valley in November 1995. His is the only Bronze Star Medal for Valor the U.S. Army awarded to a civilian for actions during the Vietnam War.

If interested in attending the dinner, contact retired Col. Richard F. Plechner at 732-549-1535. RSVP by April 2. Cost is $40 per person.
