First round down range

The Redlegs of the 3rd Battalion, 112th Field Artillery, New Jersey Army National Guard, recently conducted new equipment training on the M119A2 Towed Howitzer at Camp Grayling, Mich., from June 11 - 25.

This was the first time the Soldiers from the unit conducted field artillery training since the 112th FA's annual training period in August 2007.

In July, the unit was converted to a light field artillery battalion and now fields 16 new M119A2 Towed Howitzer artillery weapons.

According to Maj. Joel Martin, executive officer of the 3rd Battalion, 112th Field Artillery, the Soldiers of the battalion had a very successful annual training period and were able to certify all the howitzer sections on their new system.

In addition, the Soldiers are extremely excited to field the new howitzers and to be back in the artillery operations.

NJYCA cadets learn big lesson from small teachers

Story & photos by Paul Wityk, social studies instructor

On Saturday July 9, Cadets from the New Jersey Youth ChalleNGe Academy went on a field trip to Valley Forge, Pa, to get an education on history.

The Cadets had the opportunity to visit the historic winter encampment location of Gen. George Washington's revolutionary army.

After some hands-on education about the revolutionary soldier's life at the encampment site, the Cadets were invited to the Valley Forge Convention Center by Bob Giglio, convention director for Historicon, which is hosted by the Historical Miniatures Gaming Society and whose mission is to educate military history through tabletop war gaming.

This was a great chance for the Cadets to not only see another fun and interactive way to learn, but also to be taught the importance of positive hobbies. The HMGS members gave the Cadets a tour of the convention, and introduced them to the different aspects of the hobby such as good sportsmanship; positive social interaction; educational research and helped them tap into their artistic abilities. The Cadets were able to play in games ranging from ancient times and the American Civil War all the way through World War II.

By the end of the trip, the Cadets had learned that there are many more ways to get an education than just through a book.

Veterans event at Lawrenceville

A job fair and information for veterans will highlight the annual VA New Jersey Health Care System event this year.

On Saturday, August 13, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Lawrenceville Armory will host the Annual Homecoming Event in honor of Operation Enduring Freedom/Operation Iraqi Freedom/Operation New Dawn veterans at the Armory, which is located at 101 Eggert Crossing Road in Lawrenceville.

All military veterans and their family members are invited to attend.

The event will feature a job fair for veterans; VA Mobile Vet Center; VA Mobile Health Unit; information on numerous Veterans Service Organizations and college information.

In addition, special guests, door prizes, refreshments and fun for the entire family will be available.

Representatives from several regional colleges and dozens of public and private sector employers will provide information on educational benefits and employment opportunities for veterans and family members at the job fair, which is sponsored by G.I. Go Fund.

Also, veterans will be able to receive free health care screenings and gather information on agencies that provide outreach support to veterans and their families.

For more information on the event, contact June Mayer, acting OEF/OIF/OND program manager, at 973-676-1000, ext. 2369.

Vets Haven receives new furniture for facility addition

Story by Staff Sgt. Armando Vasquez / Photos by Mark C. Olsen, DMAVA/PA

With the generosity from the American Legion of New Jersey and assistance from Cadets from the New Jersey Youth ChalleNGe Academy, the Veterans Haven in Winslow Township, N.J. received on Tuesday, July 19, much needed furniture for their nearly completed addition.

Volunteers unloaded several pieces of furniture and then carried them up several flights of stairs to their final destination inside the Veterans Haven.

Veterans Haven assistant superintendent, Sean P. VanLew, was extremely grateful for the donated furniture and help during the unloading of the furniture.

“The Cadets that arrived were respectful, polite, motivated and well prepared,” said VanLew in an email. “They assimilated themselves into the existing work detail, and attacked the project with a vigor and voraciousness that it seems only ChalleNGe cadets bring to the table. They represented themselves and the academy very well. I am proud of them, and grateful to them for their hard, back breaking work.”

New Jersey has among its homeless population an estimated 7,000 to 8,000 veterans of the United States Armed Forces.

The Veterans Transitional Housing Program (Veterans Haven) is a New Jersey State operated facility for homeless veterans. After being medically evaluated at a VA Medical Center, eligible veterans must agree to a long-term program focusing on psychological, social and vocational rehabilitation.

Veterans admitted to Veterans Haven come to a 55 bed, addictions free program with staff that are sensitive to the multiple needs they present.

With the new addition to the facility, the Veterans Haven will expand its program by an additional 44 beds.
