VFW donates 3 cars to Vets Haven residents

By Robert Sauselein, superintendent, Vets Haven

Veterans Haven recently received three vehicles to be given to residents of Veterans Haven. The vehicles, a 1989 Oldsmobile Cutlass, a 1990 Ford Thunderbird and a 1990 Jeep Cherokee from VFW Post 3020, located in Delran, NJ. The VFW had a mechanic go over them before they donated them to Vehicles Haven. Al Bicchi and Tom Farrell spearheaded this undertaking.

Veterans Haven residents extend their deepest thanks and appreciation to VFW Post 3020 members for their generous gift. These vehicles enable three of the current residents to seek employment beyond the range of the local public transportation system and significantly increase their chances of improving their quality of life.

opportunities, African Americans have played a significant role in U.S. military history over the past 300 years. From the birth of our nation to the current Global War on Terrorism, African American service members have effectively provided strength and leadership in defending freedoms of the United States.

DMAVA celebrates the fourth week of Black History Month by recognizing two prominent African American groups of service members, who have stood up to become role models for generations to follow and continue to make history everyday.

Buffalo Soldiers

African-Americans have served proudly in every great American War. In 1866, through an act of Congress, legislation was adopted to create six all African-American Army units. The units were identified as the 9th and 10th Cavalry and the 38th, 39th, 40th, and 41st Infantry regiments. The four infantry regiments were later reorganized to form the 24th and 25th Infantry regiments.

These fighting men represented the first Black professional Soldiers in a peacetime army. The recruits came from varied backgrounds including former slaves and veterans from service in the Civil War.

The nickname Buffalo Soldiers began with the Cheyenne warriors in 1867. The actual Cheyenne translation was Wild Buffalo. The nickname was given out of respect and the fierce fighting ability of the 10th Cavalry. Over time, Buffalo Soldiers became a generic term for all African American soldiers.

Tuskegee Airmen

Prior to the Tuskegee Airmen, no U.S. military pilots had been African American. African Americans were denied military leadership roles and skilled training because many believed they lacked qualifications for combat duty. Civil rights organizations and the black press exerted pressure that resulted in the formation of an all African-American pursuit squadron based in Tuskegee, Ala., in 1941. They became known as the Tuskegee Airmen.

"Tuskegee Airmen" refers to all who were involved in the so-called "Tuskegee Experiment," the Army Air Corps program to train African Americans to fly and maintain combat aircraft. The Tuskegee Airmen included pilots, navigators, bombardiers, maintenance and support staff, instructors and all the personnel who kept the planes in the air.

The Tuskegee program officially began with formation of the 99th Fighter Squadron at the Tuskegee Institute, a highly regarded university founded by Booker T. Washington, in Tuskegee, Ala. The military selected Tuskegee Institute to train pilots because of its commitment to aeronautical training. Tuskegee had the facilities, engineering and technical instructors, as well as a climate for year-round flying. As the first Civilian Pilot Training Program, students completed their instruction in May 1940. The Tuskegee program was then expanded and became the center for African-American aviation during World War II.

The Tuskegee Airmen overcame segregation and prejudice to become one of the most highly respected fighter groups of that war. They proved conclusively that African Americans could fly and maintain sophisticated combat aircraft. The Tuskegee Airmen's achievements, together with the men and women who supported them, paved the way for full integration of the U.S. military.

On Nov. 6, 1998, President Clinton approved Public Law 105-355, which established the Tuskegee Airmen National Historic Site at Moton field in Tuskegee, Ala., to commemorate and interpret the heroic actions of the Tuskegee Airmen during the second world war. The new site will contain a museum and interpretive programs at the historic complex at Moton Field as well as a national center based on a public-private partnership.

Scholarship, Education News

Bill Extends Education Eligibility

A bill which extends eligibility for higher education tuition assistance to certain former members of New Jersey National Guard and increases the number of tuition-free credits available to National Guard members and their dependents was signed into law by Governor Jon. S. Corzine on Jan. 24.

The legislation would allow National Guard members who are called into active duty to utilize state tuition assistance credits after their enlistment expires.

Under the old law, active members of the New Jersey National Guard may receive up to 15 credits per semester tuition free from public institutions of higher education in the State. Similarly, the child or surviving spouse of a National Guard member killed in the performance of his duties may also receive this benefit.

This bill, A-2542, amended the law to extend eligibility for this higher education tuition benefit to members of the New Jersey National Guard whose use of the free tuition benefit is interrupted by a deployment to active duty. The change would permit these soldiers to receive their earned educational benefits should their enlistment expire, or should they be medically discharged, prior to completing their studies.

The new law will also increase the number of credits eligible for funding under this program from 15 to 16 per semester.

Scholarship information on BBB Military Line

There are many scholarships available to military family members. The Better Business Bureau (BBB) Military Line suggests that you not pay someone to find scholarships for you. Why? Because these researchers will use the same sources on the internet that you will use, so why pay them to do so? For suggestions on where to find scholarships for which you might be eligible, visit: www.enebuilder.net/cbbbmilitary/e_article-000694547.cfm?x=b8r7v3.
