

NJEFA Launches New Website

Modernized Design to be more User-Friendly, and Provide Information and Engage Visitors

Princeton (Apr. 22, 2019) – New Jersey Educational Facilities Authority (“NJEFA” or “the Authority”), a conduit issuer of bonds for higher education institutions of New Jersey announced the launch of its modernized website at www.nj.gov/njefa. The overhauled website offers easy access to essential information and features improved functionality and additional content areas that highlight the Authority’s array of financing services. The user-friendly site includes transactional success stories, an Investor Portal and an Executive Director’s corner.

“The Authority is grateful to OIT and the administration for their help in launching our new web site. The newly redesigned site will improve our ability to communicate with the public and provides easy access to our most important documents, meeting information and press releases. The site also provides agility in our communication and transparency permitting us to share current information in real time,” Eric Brophy, NJEFA Executive Director.

The website can be found at a new address www.nj.gov/njefa. The site is also accessible through the Authority’s prior web address www.njefa.com.

Users can access popular areas of the site – Meetings – Agenda – Minutes, Active POS, and News – directly from the homepage as well as the top navigation bar. NJEFA encourages visitors to explore the new website and check out new areas like the NJEFA Services pages and Success Stories.

NJEFA’s website will be updated on a regular basis with news of Authority activity, transaction activity, corporate milestones, events, and investor and financial information.
