Program Summary

With the proliferation of social media, social networks such as Facebook and LinkedIn have become essential investigative, legal and marketing tools for lawyers. As a lawyer, however, there are certain ethical concerns one needs to consider. This presentation will explore the ethical issues raised by the use of social media, such as: the duty of candor, attorney advertising, prospective "clients," the boundaries of "friending," juror selection and ex parte communications. No prior knowledge or experience with social media networks is necessary to register for this course.

Who Should Attend?

Registration for this course is limited to those who have been selected to participate in the State House Series programs. Please do not attempt to register if you have not been notified of your eligibility for this series.
