This two-day deposition skills program focuses on enhancing the skills needed to elicit information and obtain admissions effectively through depositions. Participants will develop and sharpen their deposition skills by conducting deposition examinations and defending depositions in a simulated setting, followed by faculty guidance and critique. The workshop exercises will focus on the methods and ethics of witness preparation, dealing with preliminary matters, techniques for effectively eliciting complete information from witnesses, making and responding to objections, dealing with difficult adversaries, using exhibits, and obtaining admissions. The workshops will be supplemented by presentations on the components of effective depositions.
