Program Summary

This program will focus on diversity and its impact on the workplace. Topics include the concept of diversity as distinguished from that of inclusion and why both are important, variations in how people perceive differences, and the social psychology concept of “in-group bias.” Hypothetical vignettes will be utilized to spur discussion on situations that may arise in the workplace, explore our differences in interpreting those experiences, and suggest techniques that foster a more inclusive culture. The session will also address unspoken workplace rules and the challenges they present in a multicultural workforce, plus communication as a strategy to overcome stereotyping and bias.

Who Should Attend?

Registration is limited to Department of Law and Public Safety attorneys who have received an email notice from the Department’s Diversity and Inclusion Team. Those attorneys should follow the registration instructions contained in the invitation email to reserve a seat for this session. You cannot use the AGAI registration system for this program.

Who Is the Faculty?

DAG Lisa Brown is a Special Assistant to the Attorney General. She implements strategic diversity and inclusion initiatives throughout the 13 divisions in the Department of Law and Public Safety. DAG Brown previously worked in the Civil Rights, Professional Boards Prosecution and DCF Sections of the Division of Law. She received a B.A. from Montclair State University and a J.D. from Rutgers School of Law-Newark.

Ediz Laypan is an investigator for the Division of Consumer Affairs, Office of Consumer Protection in the Department of Law and Public Safety. He conducts in depth audits and inspections of licensed premises to determine compliance with consumer protection laws and regulations. He has been involved in a number of complex investigations including financial, food, and cyber-related fraud. Ediz was a key contributor in the Division of Consumer Affairs' creation and development of its Halal Enforcement Unit. Ediz serves as a member of the Department of Law and Public Safety's Diversity Council and is an instructor/facilitator for the Department's diversity and inclusion training course, Valuing Differences. He holds a Bachelor of Arts in Communication Studies/Broadcasting from East Stroudsburg University of Pennsylvania.
