Program Summary

Responding to public records requests continues to present a myriad of challenges to OPRA custodians throughout the State, especially in the last year as our courts continue to confront and weigh in on novel and complicated issues. This program will provide a broad overview of OPRA case law developments and offer practical suggestions to assess old and new challenges and better assist with counselling client agencies. The presenters will offer a common sense approach to striking an appropriate balance between transparency and the legitimate need for confidentiality, to foster efficient government operation and protect citizens' security and privacy interests.

Eligibility

This program is open to attorneys in the Department of Law and Public Safety, county prosecutors' offices and LPS and agency OPRA custodians invited to attend. Registrants will receive the course materials prior to the program date.
