5th Floor, Room 10-C
Newark, New Jersey

 This course will be simulcast from Trenton

Program Summary

The Attorney General provides year-round representation to 21 county boards of elections and 9 county superintendents of elections. On the days of the primary and general elections, as well as during the early voting periods preceding each of those elections, deputy attorneys general throughout the Division of Law are assigned to county boards and superintendents of elections to provide legal advice as questions arise, and to appear in court on behalf of county election officials. Deputies usually report to county election officials' offices for in-person representation, but may also represent election officials by virtual appearance.

This program will familiarize deputies with the election process, including the clients they represent when assigned to election duty, the legal responsibilities and powers of those clients, what a deputy should expect when representing their county elections clients during election duty, and the duties and responsibilities of deputies during early voting and on election days.

Eligibility

This program is mandatory for Division of Law Deputy Attorneys General hired after October 2024 and deputies who have not attended Introduction to Election Duty in the last two years. Attendance is strongly recommended for deputies who have not been assigned to election duty in the last five years. Other Division of Law deputies are welcome to attend this program.
