Additional Information

Mr. Mangano was convicted of bookmaking on four occasions by the New York City Police Dept. as follows: 10/7/46 he received a $50 fine; 5/15/47 he received a $200 fine; 10/8/50 he received a $200 fine or 25 days and was sentenced to a 90-day jail term. By order dated 8/6/81, the U.S. District Court of PA found Mr. Mangano in civil contempt for refusing, without just cause, to provide testimony after having been granted immunity. He was incarcerated from 8/18/81 until 4/22/82. Mr. Mangano is listed in the Dintino report and in testimony before the U.S. Senate Committee on the Judiciary as a "caporegime" in the Genovese crime family. Testimony of Joseph Coffee on the N.Y. State Organized Crime Task Force in the GNOC hearing before the Commission on 9/9/86 identified Mr. Magano as a "capo in the Genovese family." - The respondent is alleged to be an associate of Anthony Salerno, alleged "boss" of the Genovese organized crime family. On 6/4/84, Mr. Magano was videotaped by the FBI meeting with Anthony Salerno.
