Dear Juvenile Justice Colleague:

I am pleased to present the 2011 juvenile detention statistics, which has been prepared by the Juvenile Justice Commission's Compliance Monitoring Unit. As noted in the attached report, Warren, Passaic, Gloucester, Bergen, Sussex, Monmouth, and Mercer counties have closed their juvenile detention centers since 2008 and are now sending juveniles requiring secure detention to neighboring county detention facilities. Bergen County is currently building a new detention center and plans on opening it during the summer of 2012. In addition, Union County entered into an agreement with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services in July 2009 to house a maximum of 15 federally detained juveniles in the County's juvenile detention center.

In previous years, the detention statistics were presented in two ways due to these transfer/alternate housing arrangements. The first set of statistical tables documented the actual number of admissions and related childcare days for each detention facility. A second set of adjusted tables was provided to depict the figures, had there been no transfer/alternate housing arrangements. For this year and going forward, one set of statistical tables will be presented and will reflect the actual number of juveniles held in each facility. The adjusted tables will no longer be provided, since this information is available in the New Jersey Juvenile Detention Alternatives Initiative (JDAI) 2011 Annual Data Report dated February 2012, prepared by the Juvenile Justice Commission and made available to all JDAI stakeholders.

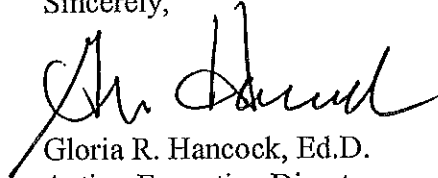

The attached report includes information on admissions, childcare days, average daily population, and average length of stay. Two-year comparisons are provided, as well as five-year statewide comparisons, where appropriate. Also, statistics are provided for county juvenile detention facilities that have juvenile detention commitment programs.

Please note that Cape May, Hunterdon, Salem and Somerset counties also do not operate juvenile detention centers. These counties send juveniles needing secure custody to neighboring county juvenile detention facilities.

In closing, I hope the statistics are helpful to you and thank you for your interest in this matter.

Sincerely,

Gloria R. Hancock, Ed.D.

SUBJECT: Statistics on Juveniles in Detention Facilities - 2011

Attached are the statistics on juveniles placed in detention facilities in New Jersey during 2011, which has been prepared by the Juvenile Justice Commission's Compliance Monitoring Unit. The data was collected through the completion of forms (Monthly Population Report for Juvenile Detention Facilities) received from each county facility and verified, if necessary.

During the past several years, various counties have engaged in transfer/alternate housing arrangements to meet their juvenile detention needs. For informational purposes, the following summarizes the current status of the closings, consolidations, etc. which have occurred.

- The Warren County Juvenile Detention Center closed on December 31, 2008, and now sends juveniles requiring secure detention to Morris County.
- The Passaic County Juvenile Detention Center closed on April 3, 2009, and now sends juveniles requiring secure detention to Essex County.
- The Gloucester County Juvenile Detention Center closed on June 3, 2009, and now sends juveniles requiring secure detention to Camden County.
- Union County entered into an agreement with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services in July 2009 to house a maximum of 15 federally detained juveniles in the County's juvenile detention center.
- The Sussex County Juvenile Detention Center closed on December 15, 2009, and now sends juveniles requiring secure detention to Morris County.
- The Monmouth County Juvenile Detention Center closed on July 1, 2010, and now sends juveniles requiring secure detention to Middlesex County.
- The Bergen County Juvenile Detention Center closed in June 2011. The County is currently building a new detention center and plans on opening it during the summer of 2012. All juveniles requiring secure detention in Bergen County since the closing have been transferred to the Union County Juvenile Detention Center.

- The Mercer County Juvenile Detention Center closed in June 2011, and now sends juveniles requiring secure detention to Middlesex County.
- Cape May, Hunterdon, Salem and Somerset counties do not operate juvenile detention centers. These counties send juveniles needing secure custody to neighboring county juvenile detention facilities.

In previous years, the detention statistics were presented in two ways due to the transfer/alternate housing arrangements noted above. The first set of statistical tables documented the actual number of admissions and related childcare days for each detention facility. A second set of adjusted tables was provided to depict the figures, had there been no transfer/alternate housing arrangements. For this year and going forward, one set of statistical tables will be presented and will reflect the actual number of juveniles held in each facility. The adjusted tables will no longer be provided, since this information is available in the New Jersey Juvenile Detention Alternatives Initiative (JDAI) 2011 Annual Data Report dated February 2012, prepared by the Juvenile Justice Commission and made available to all JDAI stakeholders.

The attached report presents two-year comparisons, as well as five-year statewide comparisons where appropriate. Please note that the statistics in Tables I through VII do not include juveniles admitted to juvenile detention commitment programs. All statistics in Table X and thereafter, include all juveniles admitted to detention, predispositioned and commitment program admissions, for the purpose of presenting a true reflection of the number of juveniles in detention facilities.

Tables I and II are provided to delineate all relevant information regarding admissions to juvenile detention facilities in 2011. Also included are the statistics pertaining to childcare days, average daily population, and average length of stay.

Tables III, IV, and V compare the statistics from 2010, with those of 2011. Admissions decreased statewide in 2011 by 16.8 percent, while the average length stay increased from 30.2 to 32.1 days, a 6.3 percent increase. The average daily population in New Jersey's juvenile detention facilities decreased from 461 in 2010, to 400 during 2011.

Tables VI and VII delineate the number and percent of male and female admissions by race. The tables indicate that black and Hispanic juveniles comprised 84.9 percent of all detention admissions statewide in 2011.

Tables VIII and IX are provided to delineate all relevant information regarding admissions to juvenile detention commitment programs. Also included are the statistics pertaining to childcare days, average daily population, and average length of stay. Admissions to detention commitment programs accounted for 6.5 percent of detention admissions in 2011.

Table X provides the average daily population as a percent of approved capacity for each facility, as well as a statewide total. Table X indicates that the statewide percent of approved capacity was 50.1 percent, which was a decrease from the previous year's 54.6.

Tables XI, XII, and XIII compare statewide statistics for the period 2007 to 2011. The tables indicate that in 2011, the figures for admissions to detention and average daily population decreased over the five-year period 49 and 35.6 percent, respectively. The average length of stay increased during this period by 26 percent.

Tables XIV and XV present juvenile detention rates for the period from 2007 to 2011. There are several methods of determining juvenile detention rates, and for this report, we have selected two methods. The first is based on delinquency complaints filed, the second, based on population.

Detention rates based on delinquency complaints filed are calculated by taking the number of juveniles admitted to detention statewide, dividing by the number of delinquency complaints filed in court statewide, and multiplying by 100 for each calendar year 2007-2011. Table XIV provides the figures for detention rates per 100 delinquency complaints filed.

Detention rates based on population are calculated by taking the number of juveniles admitted to detention statewide, dividing by the estimated number of juveniles age 10-17, and multiplying by 1,000. Table XV provides the figures for statewide population estimates for juveniles age 10-17, admissions to detention statewide, and the detention rates per one thousand juveniles age 10-17.

I would like to thank all the juvenile detention staff for their efforts in providing the data necessary to develop these statistics. Your cooperation is very much appreciated. If there are any questions, please feel free to call me at (609) 341-5056.
