Advocates play a crucial role in:

- Enhancing the quality of life of nursing home residents;
- Providing information to residents and their families about their rights, as established by law;
- Preventing abuse, neglect and exploitation of residents through consistent presence and advocacy;
- Providing support and listening to residents’ concerns;
- Resolving problems within the facility;
- Empowering the residents to speak for themselves.

First piloted in 1993, the Office’s Volunteer Advocate Program establishes a visible presence within long-term care facilities to represent the needs and concerns of residents 60 years of age or older. After completing a 32-hour training program, advocates visit nursing facilities near their homes for a minimum of four hours each week, to address concerns on issues such as residents’ rights, quality of life and quality of care, and daily activities.

The Volunteer Advocate Program

The New Jersey Long-Term Care Ombudsman Volunteer Advocate Program helps promote the health, safety, and welfare of residents age 60 and older who live in nursing homes. Advocates help protect residents’ rights and ensure quality of care by making regular visits to a local nursing home. Volunteers take on a non-adversarial role to help resolve residents’ concerns as close to the bedside as possible. More than half of all residents have no living relatives, or regular visitors. Residents may require Ombudsman services to assure them of their rights, since residents are not always aware of their rights, or cannot assert them. It is the philosophy of the Ombudsman program that the presence of a Volunteer Advocate helps prevent abuse, neglect and exploitation of the residents in long-term care facilities.
