A group of Fair Lawn students from the Lyncrest School helped beautify and repair some land near the Passaic River recently for Arbor Day and Earth Day.

Students from the school's Outdoor Classroom program cleared fallen trees, reconstructed a woodchip path, and rebuilt a teaching station that was damaged after Superstorm Sandy.

The event was held in conjunction with the Passaic Valley Sewer Commission.

The Outdoor Classroom program was founded in 2008 to give students more hands-on opportunities to study the environment.
